Comfort

Leadcom's premium cinema seating is testament to our focus on quality – offering at-home seating enjoyment made to commercial standards. Each seat amongst this range offers improved durability, practical function and unparalleled comfort. We avoid using the super soft foam which is commonly used in home recliners and often mistaken for comfort. Instead, we use durable foam with exceptional support for every part of the body.

Flexibility

Our modular concept delivers faster production time and smoother future maintenance. This allows you to mix and match seat types, features and materials, and makes repairing and replacing parts (due to wear or damage) quick and simple.

Customization

One-size never fits all, and no two cinemas are even remotely the same. Our made-to-order service makes seating personal. Our strong engineering capability enables us to deliver custom-made solutions according to your exact requirements. This creates a unique seating experience for your audience – providing you with an array of customization options.

Quality

We take quality control incredibly seriously – from the base to the headrest, we've gone to great lengths to source the toughest, most durable of raw materials. Our high-standard steel guarantees safety and durability, while our foam and upholstery meets the stringent BS5852 fire-retardant standard.

Support

With the international offices based in Canada, the Netherlands; and with agents locate all around the world, no matter the country or continent our clients expect (and receive) lightning fast responses and short design-to-installation timescales.
